Take a Step Ahead

Going green is a choice that starts from the ground up. AKA while you're thinking about your carbon footprint, make sure you're leaving the right kind of footprints, too. On a mission to ramp up the sustainability of their apparel, adidas has collaborated with Parley for the Oceans to create a heel strap and tongue webbing made with yarn spun from recycled plastic gathered from the beach. This new approach hasn't put a dent in this iconic shoe's looks; it's still the same as when it first stepped out on the hardwood back in the 1970s.
